The image contains four dot-matrix tracing exercises arranged in a 2x2 grid. Each exercise consists of a grid with a colored shape and a corresponding grid with a pink dot indicating the starting point for tracing.

- Top-left: A grid with a green diamond, a red rectangle, and two green trapezoids. A blue arrow points to a grid with a pink dot at the top-left corner of the diamond's position.
- Top-right: A grid with a green pentagon and a red house-shaped polygon. A blue arrow points to a grid with a pink dot at the top-left corner of the house's roof.
- Bottom-left: A grid with a red rectangle, a green square, and another red rectangle. A blue arrow points to a grid with a pink dot at the top-left corner of the first rectangle.
- Bottom-right: A grid with a red stepped square, a green square, and another green square. A blue arrow points to a grid with a pink dot at the top-left corner of the stepped square.
